

Julie Mughal, author, Land Without Hats, a book about the plight of widows and their children in some of the most desolate and dangerous parts of the world.

Contact: jmughal@live.com
www.juliemughal.com

Bio: Ms. Mughal received her B.A. in political science from Syracuse University and her M.A. in international relations from the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, also from Syracuse University. She has over 17 years of international experience; serving the past eight years at Save the Children, where she is currently the Associate Director for Development Communications. Prior to this, she served as the Asia Operations Manager in Save the Children, which included postings in the Connecticut-based Headquarters, Pakistan and Afghanistan. Ms. Mughal also spent nine years at the International Organization for Migration (IOM) based in Geneva, Switzerland as a project designer and trainer as well as a desk office for the Africa region. She is currently on the board of advisors for the Susie Reizod Foundation and has served as the United Nations representative for the non-profit organization Empowering Widows in Development (Widows Rights International). She is the author of a number of migration-related articles as well as articles related to the situation of widows in the developing world. Ms. Mughal lives in Connecticut with her husband and two young children. www.juliemughal.com